MAYOR CALLS FOR ROOF AND BUILDING INSPECTIONS BECAUSE OF HEAVY SNOWFALL

---NEWS AND COMMUNITY STATEMENT---

With so much concern and needed attention to roofs and buildings enduring the weight of snow and ice, Hartford Mayor Pedro E. Segarra issued this statement:

“To ensure people’s safety, especially that of our children, I have instructed the team at the License and Inspection Division of Development Services to inspect our city and school buildings to make sure that the roofs and the facilities are structurally sound and can withstand the weight of this record-breaking snowfall. I will be receiving regular updates on the progress of these inspections. The public’s safety is paramount and is just as important inside our buildings as it is on our roads.”
