SEARCHING FOR NEW FINANCE DIRECTOR

---NEWS RELEASE---

(October 6, 2010)--- Mayor Pedro E. Segarra is launching a search for a new Finance Director for the City of Hartford. Christopher Wolf is resigning effective October 15th to devote more time to his foundation, POTE Foundation, Inc, which supports educational efforts.

Mayor Segarra says, “On behalf of the residents of the City of Hartford, I appreciate the many accomplishments Mr. Wolf has achieved during his tenure. He helped stabilize the budget process, restructured the debt management function and initiated the structure of the current parking concession initiative. Chris will now focus his attention on his educational efforts and we wish him much success. However, there is still much work to be done regarding Hartford’s still extraordinarily fragile financial situation. There will be many demands on the staff that must go beyond the traditional 9 to 5 or 40-hour work week. Everyone is being asked to invest 120% of their time, energy and expertise in order to achieve realistic and quantitative results that best benefit the taxpayers of our City.”

Until a new director is named, Christian Johnson will serve as Acting Finance Director.
