

 Ingredients for Change

The Hartford Food System, The City of Hartford Department of Health and Human Services, and Hartford Public Library, in partnership with Active Voice and Participant Media, invite you to a FREE community screening of the film, Food, Inc.

Featuring a panel discussion with community members who are making a difference by helping Hartford residents get healthy food

Thursday, May 20, 5:00-7:45 p.m.
(Film starts at 5:45 p.m.)

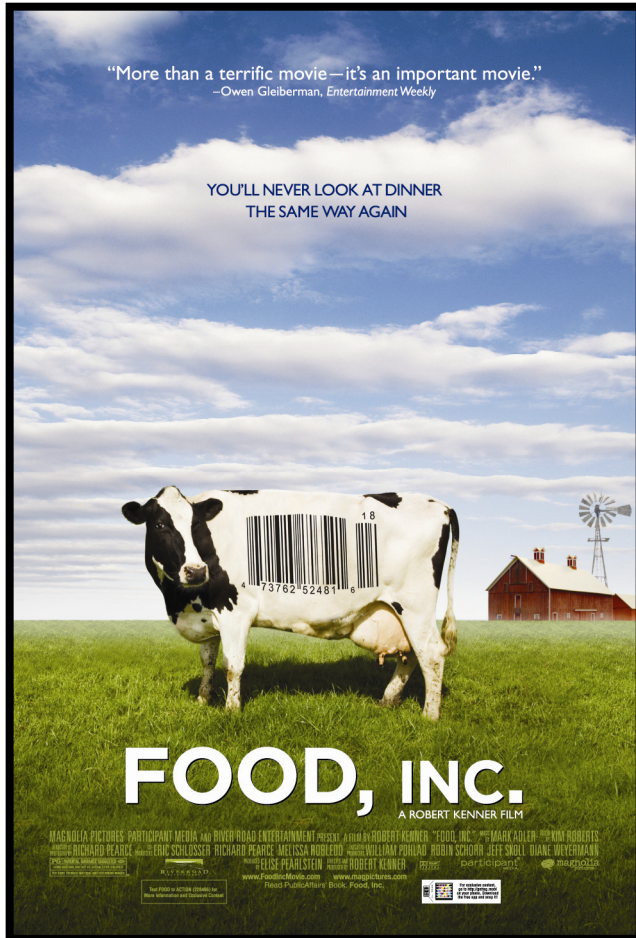

X-Room, Main Floor
500 Main Street
Hartford, CT 06103
www.hplct.org

Light refreshments and fun door prizes will be provided!

For childcare or transportation needs, please call 860-296-9325.

Come learn about our nation's food system and what you can do to help ensure that the food you eat and provide for your family is of the highest quality possible. There is much that you can do to control the healthiness of your food. Come join us to talk and learn about this critical issue!

Food, Inc., a feature-length documentary by director Robert Kenner, lifts the veil on our nation's food industry, exposing a system controlled by international corporations that prioritize profit over the health and safety of consumers. Please visit www.foodincmovie.com.

The Ingredients for Change Campaign includes public screening events of the film Food, Inc. in thirty lower income communities around the country in an effort to raise public awareness of the U.S. food system, and to address issues of food access, childhood obesity, and other diet-related health problems.