

Pedro E. Segarra
Mayor

CITY WEBSITE GETS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

---NEWS AND COMMUNITY RELEASE---

(September 1, 2010)--- The City of Hartford's website www.hartford.gov is a Top City Government Website according the editors at Juggle.com. After reviewing more than 3,000 government portals, Hartford's official government website has earned this honor and distinction.

"Our Awards Editors came to this decision after assessing this site's impressively rich information, useful services, and excellent visual design," said Lauren Taggart, Awards Editor @ Juggle.com.

Mayor Pedro E. Segarra congratulates the team effort between the Communications Division, Metro Hartford Information Services, and the Hartford Public Library that has gone into evolving the City's website over the years. "In these tough economic times, it takes great communication and multi-tasking between different people, different departments and different city entities to create a product that is up to date and user friendly. On behalf of the residents and non-residents who have logged-on and utilized our website, we look forward to the continued development of www.hartford.gov."

Sarah Barr, Director of Communications for the City congratulates fellow towns and cities of East Lyme, Meriden, New Haven, and Stamford for also achieving this award. "More and more people are going online for information because it is faster and easier. It is up to individual towns and cities to meet this demand and provide the most accurate and up-to-date information."

Here's a link to the published feature: <http://www.juggle.com/hartford-connecticut-top-city-government-website> and <http://www.juggle.com/top-connecticut-city-government-websites>"

