

Eddie A. Perez
Mayor

SPRING INTO FALL WITH ANOTHER DESTINATION HARTFORD WEEKEND!

---NEWS RELEASE---

(September 21, 2009)--- Tuesday is the first day of autumn and the City of Hartford is ready to ring in the new season by celebrating another Destination Hartford Weekend. Come see for yourself the “Pipes in the Valley Celtic Music Festival” at Riverfront Plaza on Saturday, September 26th beginning at 11:00 a.m.

Mayor Eddie A. Perez says, “The fall is always a wonderful time to rediscover our City’s treasures, including our magnificent riverfront. This is an opportunity to celebrate diversity, culture, and heritage. But the fun and exploration shouldn’t stop there. I invite you to also continue your pilgrimage to the Wadsworth Atheneum for its ‘Whirls and Twirls’ exhibit, the Charter Oak Cultural Center for ‘The Colors of Music’ Concert Series, and the Artists Collective, where violinist John Blake opens the Jackie McLean International Arts Festival. Hartford offers so much thanks to our distinctive and world renowned Arts and Heritage community.”

For more information on Destination Hartford Weekends, please log on to www.hartford.com.

For more information on the wide variety of arts and entertainment venues, you can check out www.hartford.gov and go to the box entitled “Attractions and Events” on the main page.